Hello,

Looking for opinion's here. Fertrell has a Liquid Kelp concentrate product that calls for 2-3 pints per acre once a year. They say to mist the product and not drench the tree. I talked to an ergonomist from their company and they weren't 100% sure, but suggested that I spray approx 1/4 of a pint per acre (100 gal) if I am going to spray weekly in my holistic spray. Wanted to put the feelers out there to see if anyone had any insight on this product and/or suggestions of their own?

Many Thanks,

Brandt
