I found this article browsing a link from www.climateandeconomy.com

Lost Apple Project and the Temperate Orchard Conservancy: David Bencoter, the founder of the Lost Apple Project, wouldn't be surprised if some types of apples recently rediscovered in parts of the Inland Northwest did not exist anywhere else on Earth.

How about them apples? Whitman County apple detective rediscovers 7 lost varieties across Inland Northwest is the headline of the article in the Spokeman's Review.
